Healing the World in Partnership with Dolphins & Whales

It has been well documented that people who swim with dolphins and whales have experienced powerful and miraculous healings with physical and emotional challenges.

People have experienced the release of chronic pain, disappearance of tumors, becoming pregnant after a history of fertility issues and even clinically depressed people becoming functional after one swim with dolphins!

In the presence of whales, I have seen first hand, many times, the beautiful and gentle release of what no longer serves and a reconnection to long forgotten passions and purpose in life.

The dolphins and whales are here to help us humans wake up and live our best lives.

This guide will help you to dive into partnership to spread the wave of healing around the world!

Connecting with Dolphins & Whales

The first step towards creating a deep healing relationship with dolphins and whales is fun and simple...

...by opening your heart, declaring to the universe and setting an intention to connect deeply with the dolphins and whales.

Here is a list of ways to start diving into connection with the dolphins and whales:

1. Inviting the dolphins and whales into your meditations.
2. Spending time with them on the shore, a boat or even swimming in the water with them.
3. Reading spiritual books about them.
  - Here is a list of Recommended Books
4. Watching videos or movies about them.
  - Here is a link to my YouTube Channel
5. Putting up art, pictures and reminders of them in your home or office.
6. Inviting them into your dreams.

These may sound simple. Trust me, the more you surround yourself with them, the more you will align with their powerful healing energy.

Healing with Dolphins & Whales

Dolphins and whales have miraculous healing powers for themselves. They have been known to heal their podmates from catastrophic injuries, such as shark bites that no human could recover from. They even have the ability to shut off blood supply to gaping open wounds!

Science does not know how they heal each other so quickly and easily. In my experience with them and what they have shared with me is that it is all done with love, intention and the transmission of their powerful healing energy.

You can receive this incredibly beautiful healing energy by simply asking them to send you their healing energy...then sit back, relax and open up to receive. It can be as simple as that!

Or you can book a session with a certified Dolphin~Whale Healer.

Dolphin~Whale Healing Energy is a deeply respectful, highly advanced form of spiritual energy healing.

Dolphin & Whale Wisdom

When you create a partnership with dolphins and whales through connection and receiving their healing energies, you will soon realize that there is much wisdom that you can learn from them.

The whales are the keepers of the Akashic Records on Earth and are here to help you awaken and are happy and eager to share the wisdom they hold with you.

Dolphins and whales are fully conscious beings. Part of their purpose on Earth is to help you to become more conscious and to fully embrace your highest potential by living your best life in pure joy.

Here is a list and description of what I call, Dolphin and Whale Living Skills:

Joy & Play

The dolphins represent Joy. They bring a smile to the face of everyone who sees them and their mission is to bring more joy and playfulness to your life, as they live every day. How can you bring more play and joy into your life?

Go with the Flow and Surf through challenges

When the sea gets rough and stormy, dolphins and whales do not avoid or resist this challenge. In fact, they play with the huge waves, riding the wave instead of fighting against it.

I have even seen them leaping high by using the force of the wave to propel them further than they could jump on their own.

By going with the flow and playing with the challenge, it gives them a whole new perspective of the problem to be able to joyfully return back to a state of peace and calm. How can you surf through the challenges in your life?

Transparency

Dolphins and whales can navigate in low or zero light conditions through their ability to echolocate. Using sound to 'see' what is ahead of them.

In fact, they can even see inside the bodies of others to find any disease or weakness, even pregnancy within days of conception!

Transparency continued

They can even 'see' your emotional state! We hold our bodies differently when we are mad, sad or happy and relaxed. That means in the world of dolphins and whales there is no such thing as secrets and lies.

Imagine what your life would be like if you lived in a world of complete transparency?

Abundance

Whales represent Abundance. They are the largest animals to have ever lived on Earth and they eat the smallest and you never see a skinny whale!

Science has recently proven that when there are more whales eating krill and fish, there are actually more krill and fish, not less. Whales actually create their own abundance, just by being whale.

When whales eat, they poop, releasing nutrients for the plankton and the entire food chain.

How can you create your own abundance?

Dolphin & Whale Wisdom

Unity/Community

Dolphins and some whales live in extended family units called pods. They stay with their pods their entire lives.

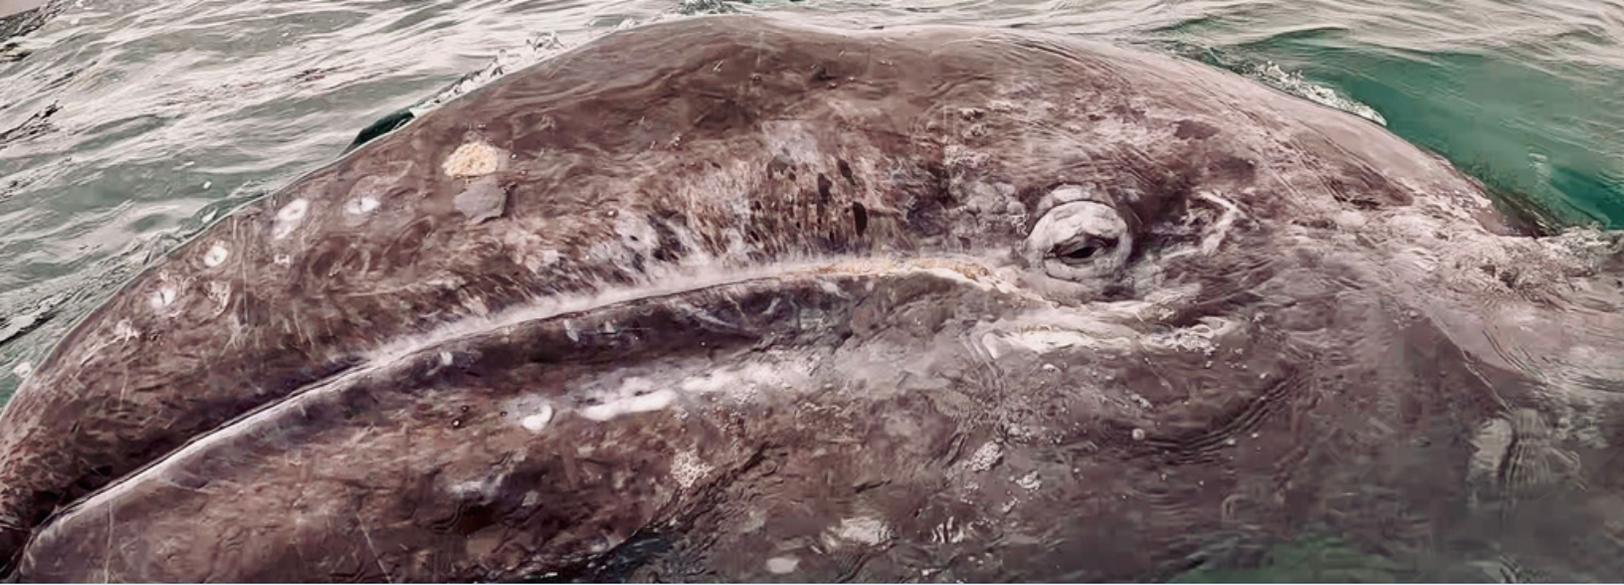

In a dolphin or whale pod, what is good for the pod is good for the individual. Yet, each one is honored and respected for his/her uniqueness and personality.

There is no jealousy. There is only cooperation and support. They work together for the greater good of all. No one has to lose what is most important to them by being a valued member of the pod.

They work together as one, so everyone wins.

How can you create a loving, supportive community around you?

Dolphin & Whale Wisdom

Forgiveness

Gray whales represent forgiveness. They were once known as "Devil Fish" by whalers because they aggressively fought back against the hunters.

Now, they are known as the friendliest whales on Earth because in the very same lagoons where they were hunted to the brink of extinction they now choose to approach boats to be touched by friendly people. Mother whales even bring their newborn calves and lift them up to interact with the people on the boats!

Some of the whales are old enough to remember the whaling. The Gray whales have forgiven the human race for almost wiping out their entire species.

If the Gray whales can forgive us, how can we not follow their example to forgive others and even ourselves?

Spreading the Wave of Transformation

You now have a much better understanding of how the dolphins and whales can heal the world through connection, their powerful healing energy and their loving wisdom.

So how can you partner with them to change the world for the better by sharing their healing and wisdom with others?

Here are a few ways you can spread the wave of transformation in partnership with the dolphins and whales:

- Learn as much as you can from them to apply and model in your life for others to see.
- Share what you have learned from them with friends and clients.
- Get groups of friends and clients and take them out on a dolphin or whale watching tour.
- Invite them to use you as a channel to share their powerful healing energy in your own healing sessions for others.

Celebrate Your Partnership with the Dolphins & Whales!

I hope you have enjoyed discovering how you can create a partnership with the dolphins and whales.

Have fun diving deep into connection with them so you can help raise the level of consciousness around the planet through your relationship with them.

The dolphins and whales celebrate you and all that you give to the world. They are honored and grateful for all that you do to spread the wave of transformation around the world.
